Emergency Supply Kit

A disaster supply kit is a small collection of basic household goods and personal important items you will need in an event of an emergency. You will need to assemble your kit well in advance prior to an emergency or disaster situation. In the event you are required to evacuate in a moment's notice, you most likely will not have time to shop for the items you will need to take with you. Therefore, it is very important to have your kit ready in advance. In most cases, you will be required to survive on your own for up to 72 hours after an emergency. Having the list of items on hand before an emergency will allow you and your family to ride out a disaster comfortably.
